

APRESENTAÇÃO

ESTE SEGUNDO número de Línguas e Instrumentos Lingüísticos traz textos que procuram discutir as teorias lingüísticas (“Sobre a (Des-)construção das Teorias Lingüísticas”, de M. Pêcheux), estudar a gramática da Real Academia Espanhola na sua relação com a questão do Espanhol como língua nacional, e seu ensino, em países latino-americanos (“La Academia Española y la Historia de la Gramática” de C. Luis) e refletir sobre a questão do português do Brasil (“Norma e Condescendência; Ciência e Pureza”, de E. Pagotto).

Na seção Crônicas e Controvérsias publica-se um instigante texto de M. Bréal (“O Mito de Édipo) que, mais que um estudo sobre o mito, é a constituição de uma concepção de sentido e de texto. Questão discutida em “Linguagem e Mito: Uma Concepção de Sentido e de Texto” de E. Guimarães.

Na última seção vem uma resenha de Michaelis - Moderno Dicionário da Língua Portuguesa, publicado pela Melhoramentos. Esta resenha se coloca como parte da reflexão que a revista se propõe fazer sobre instrumentos lingüísticos.

Línguas e Instrumentos Lingüísticos espera, assim, estar contribuindo para o avanço da discussão teórica e da descrição de aspectos das Línguas no Brasil, bem como das políticas das línguas.
